

Hello there!

I thank everyone for considering my work as an author and inviting me for various key events.

It's often noted that a person is not expressing himself/herself clearly when he/she talks to someone; however, writing is a medium that gives that person the liberty since there is less fear of being judged by people.

I wish all my readers a wonderful time reading my books.

Best Wishes

Devika Das – The Person

'A Content Strategist by profession but a writer by passion'

An eloquent writer whose words pour out naturally, that's Devika Das. Her first encounter with writing happened at the age of 13 when she explored various paths of poetry. Later, she started blogging in 2008 and stepped into novel writing in 2016.

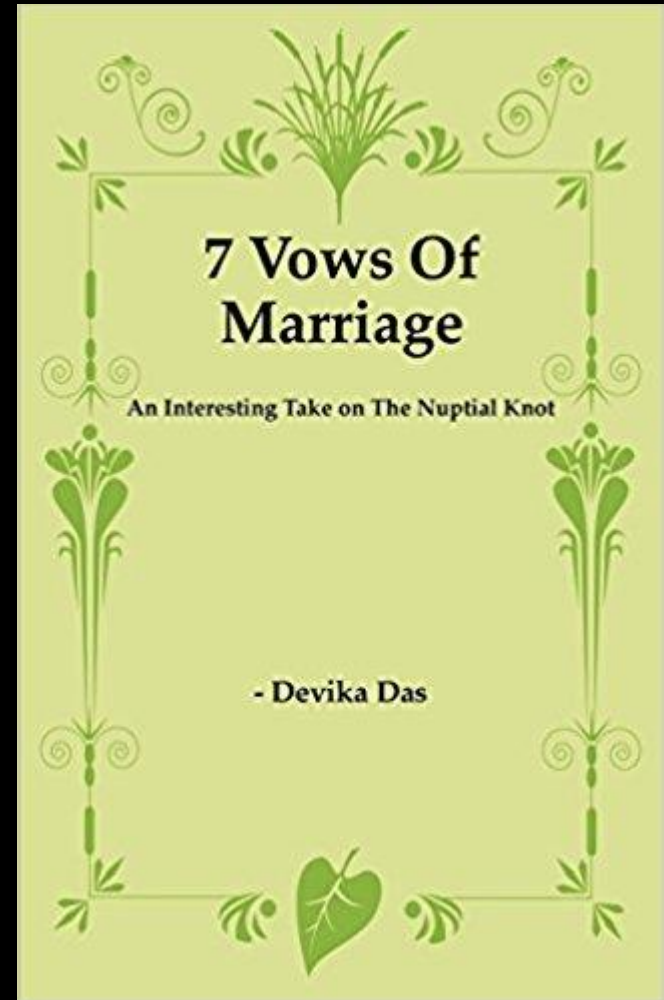

The poem that has received great acclaim is "For Those At Kargil", a tribute to all those martyrs who have laid down their lives while serving the nation. Creative writing liberates her and is a medium to express her real Self. It's often noted that a person is not expressing himself/herself clearly when he/she talks to someone; however, writing is a medium that gives a person the liberty since there is less fear of being judged by people.

Her recent publication, an anthology contribution, talks about breaking stereotypes. Her hobbies include reading, listening to music and theatre.

Her Work

People say 'marriages are made in heaven'. The author believes that marriage is an association between two families held together by the couple. It is the responsibility of the husband and wife to maintain a healthy relationship between the two families. The author revisits moments of togetherness cherished by our past generations and also highlight how the definition of marriage has evolved over the years. Quoting true insights about real couples, the author intends to send a positive message to the readers about keeping the sanctity of marriage, a pure societal institution, alive. It is true that Adam and Eve had committed a sin but marriage is not a sin because it has the assent of the Almighty.

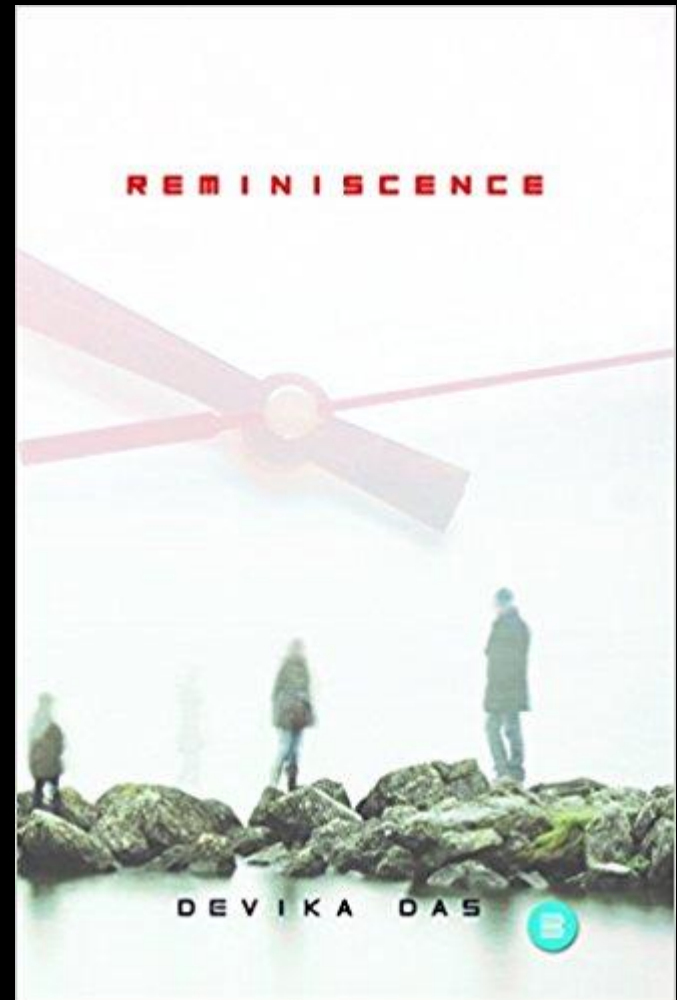

Crests and troughs, ups and downs, joys and sorrows are a part of everyone's lives. While many choose to simply succumb to bad times, the winner is the one who remains strong, successfully wades off negativity and rises, unbound. All of us, at some point of time, have experienced situations involving emotional outbursts where we have, albeit unknowingly, hurt others or even our own self and have only ended up regretting our actions. Wouldn't it be great if we could somehow become mindful of our current emotional state and maintain equilibrium in our personal and professional lives? Moreover, mindfulness helps us realize what we really want from life. It helps us to first think, then act and not vice-versa.

The Mind Game is a self-improvement guide that talks about how to manage emotions wisely, and lead a powerful, but stress free life.

Reminiscence is a collection of poems reflecting the poet's learning from her experiences. The poems are an assortment of style and genre without restricting to a specific tone and style. The poet has exercised freedom in depicting various aspects of our life along with the importance of nature and other living beings. The poems have a sweet blend of rhythm and blank verse to avoid monotony.

DEVIKA DAS | AUTHOR INTERVIEW

NOVEMBER 17, 2017

When she is not busy writing, she doubles as a Salsa dancer and a theatre artist. Her belief in the motto "Work is Fun" has enabled her to study the many facets of a work life and the stress that comes with it. Her latest book, "The Mind Game" is a result of extensive research and aims at helping individuals deal with stress and guiding them towards a healthy life. A classic case of "beauty with brains", here's a tête-à-tête with Author Devika Das.

"The Mind Game is a concerted effort to study why stress/depression is becoming"
